Fourth Sunday after Epiphany

Hellooo friends! If you wanted to learn how to build something, who would you ask? Maybe a construction worker or a carpenter? How about if you wanted to learn how to bake a cake? You might ask a baker or your grandma. What if you wanted to learn how to play the clarinet? You might ask a band teacher or someone who plays the clarinet.

Why would we listen to or go to those people to ask how to do these things? Because they know how...because they do it for a living or it's something they enjoy. This makes them really good at what they know how to do.

What if we wanted to know how to love people? Who do you think we'd listen to about that?

Our gospel lesson from Mark tells us "When Jesus lived on earth he was a teacher, and the people who heard him "were astonished at his teaching, for he taught them as having authority...".

Jesus taught people about the love of God. They could see by the things he did and the things he said that he was an authority. They watched as Jesus healed a man who was sick in his mind. They saw the power of God's love.

The best teachers are the ones who really know what they are talking about. Jesus is the best teacher to teach us about love.

Loving God, you sent your son Jesus to teach with power, to show us how to love, and what healing looks like. Help us to model Jesus' way of love so that others may know his saving grace. Amen.
